Consulting services for process and technology solutions

tolingo solutions represents comprehensive consulting services. Our goal is to lower translation costs while simultaneously improving the quality of your translated texts.

To do so, we analyse your translation data, order processes, quality-assurance methods and, if applicable, the review tools and adjustment processes that you may use.

Together, we identify potential cost savings, as well as possibilities for simplifying processes and system connections. The result is a concept, individually tailored to your company, that prepares your international communication for the future and implements data and system synergies to lower costs and increase quality.
